Culturescape 2018 (CS2018) offers an interdisciplinary and highly-integrated study experience. The programme incorporates creative studies and fieldwork activities with a focus on designing for cultural heritage.

You will be encouraged to explore a “practice-based” approach to creative research while investigating contemporary issues in communication design and cultural curating through their interfacing with the cultural environment (or culturescape).

This interdisciplinary course can be undertaken towards course credit (6 or 12 credit point options available) or as a co-curricular overseas experience.

CS2018 is being offered to undergraduate and postgraduate students from across the Faculty of Art Design & Architecture (MADA). We also welcome Expressions-of-Interest from students with specific interests in Digital Humanities and Media Communications from the Faculty of Arts and Information Technology.
